Eight Injured In Dakota Train Tragedy.
FIRE DESTROYS

WATERLOO, S. D., March 4.—Two people were killed and seven or eight were injured three weeks ago when the south-bound passenger train on the South Dakota Central line went through a bridge about ten miles south of here today.

The weakening of the bridge is believed to have been the cause of the disaster.

Among the other great disasters, in addition to the Titanic already mentioned, were:

The Cunard line steamship Lusitania, which was torpedoed by a German submarine and sunk off the head of Kinsale, Ireland, on May 7, 1915, with the loss of 1205 lives.

Following description of the defense of Harbord, three miles to the north of Verdun, which was the scene of the last battle of Verdun begun.

On February 21, at 7:00 o'clock in the morning, the Germans began the preparations for their attack. They used a formidable artillery force consisting of 18 heavy guns and a battery of six all-caliber (the hall from them) of 150 millimeters to take care of the enemy's machine gun fire of an anti-aircraft gun.

Hand grenades was stored in this position.

After details of the explosion have been received by the Temps, which say probably 20 persons were killed and 30 wounded. Search is being made for the victims.

Fire broke out at several places as a result of the explosion. It was caused by the accidental dropping of a can of kerosene during the explosion.

Mr. Bailey said he assured Mr. Bryan that at least there was no overwhelming majority in congress favorable to the McNamee warning resolution, but that he made no prediction as to what the vote would be.
